

OF MICE AND MARINES | 10 WINNING DEVELOPERS

SIERRA

Explore, Enjoy, and Protect the Planet

green cuisine

SPREADING
THE HEALTH

YOUR SUPERMARKET'S SECRETS

WHAT FOOD
NATION DO YOU
CALL HOME?

THE MAGAZINE
OF THE SIERRA CLUB

$2.95 (US) $3.50 (CAN) $4.00 (INTL)
NOVEMBER/DECEMBER 2004

Pop Corner

In between comedian Jack Black's hosting antics and Shakira's shaking hips, MTV made time for a speech by Al Gore at its annual Video Music Awards. With the channel's audience sharing Gore's concern about global warming—81 percent of 13- to 24-year-olds surveyed say that action must be taken right away—MTV has launched a two-part Break the Addiction Challenge, including a 12-step program to reduce personal contributions to global warming and a contest for U.S. and Canadian campuses to switch to 100 percent green energy.

think.mtv.com

Holiday film releases will include The Blood Diamond, a political thriller starring Leonardo DiCaprio and set in Sierra Leone, where control of diamond exports fueled a bloody civil war in the 1990s. Though the industry has taken steps to keep "conflict diamonds" off the market, some companies are trying to address human-rights and environmental issues in other ways, such as by using diamonds from more strictly regulated Canadian mines (brilliantearth.com, cred.tv) or creating gem-quality synthetics (greenkarat.com).

1. natural light
2. compact fluorescent fixtures
3. low-toxicity paint
4. formaldehyde-free cabinets
5. bamboo cabinet doors
6. salvaged-stone countertops
7. natural linoleum flooring
8. on-demand hot water
9. ecofriendly cleaners

Eaters' Oasis

In the ultimate eco-eating experience, environmentally friendly food would be cooked by energy-efficient appliances (energystar.gov) in a kitchen built with safe, salvaged materials (floor-to-ceiling suggestions from greenhomeguide.com are outlined above). But it doesn't take a big investment to add some sustainable flair to your meals. Set the table with recycled-beer-bottle tumblers (elsewares.com); some colorful, naturally lacquered bowls made of fast-growing bamboo (bambuhome.com); and a sleek serving tray made of an old washing-machine drum (www.seccoshop.com). An in-kitchen composter (the "Happy Farmer" version from scdworld.com) will take care of the scraps.

